REMARKS

25X1

1. a. A new runway and taxiway were being leveled and concreted at the old improvised airfield of LODZ-RUDA PASJANICKA (J 52/0 3) from December 1945 to November 1946. The concrete layer of the run and taxiway was about six inches thick and there were drainage ditches at the sides. Clearing work was being done at the two destroyed hangars. A radio station having a mast about 17 feet high above, was located in a cantonment building beside the hangars. Twenty to thirty aircraft revetments (without additional earth walls) were located at the outside of the taxiway. There were no airfield boundary light.

b. One twin-engine transport plane ("Douglas") has landed at the airfield every day since September 1946.
